The Family School is a home-from-home for children and families, where learning is active, participatory and purposeful and where learning is part of living. We support an informal, emergent curriculum, which grows from the interests of individual children and the group as a whole and which values imaginative play and exploration as well as creative, academic and physical work.

- informal, child-centred, respectful education
- No SATS, no testing, no National Curriculum constraints
 - children direct their own learning and can develop at their own pace and in their own way
- supportive, experienced teachers and visiting experts
 - high adult to child ratio • small mixed age groups
- free play indoors and outdoors • wide choice of resources
- adult led activities with academic, social and practical skills "built in"; cooking, gardening, woodwork, arts and crafts, music, storytelling, co-operative games.
- best use of London's resources (museums, galleries, parks etc.)
 - regular engagement with nature and visits to farms
- clear boundaries, communication and conflict resolution strategies
- family involvement in school activities • parent support groups
 - no religious affiliations • ecological ethos
- a not-for-profit registered charity with no state funding, reluctantly having to charge fees

We are committed to providing a flexible learning environment, adapting to each child, so that the inquisitive and enthusiastic nature of children is nourished and developed to the full.
